

UNITED BENEFICE OF CORLEY PARISH CHURCH & ST MARY & ALL SAINTS CHURCH, FILLONGLEY WITH FILLONGLEY METHODIST CHURCH

Anglicans and Methodists in Unity.

Dear Friends,

You may have already heard 'though the grapevine' that I am leaving the Benefice at the end of October.

This was a really difficult decision to make. I have really loved being your Rector and I have only made this painful decision due to my worsening mental health. I'm afraid that I need to take some time away from ministry to concentrate of getting well again. I believe that God has plans to 'prosper and not harm me' (Jeremiah 29:11) and that I am, as we all are, a beloved child of God to whom Jesus sent God's only Son so that we may have life in all its fullness (John 10:10). But I also need to take responsibility for my own mental and physical health, hence the decision to step down as Rector.

I plan to work my period of notice and with the support of the Church Wardens, Church Steward Wardens, Archdeacon Sue and my GP will continue to lead worship and to officiate at occasional offices. My last service in the Benefice will be on Sunday 31st October. I am so very sorry to have to leave after such a short season of ministry in these wonderful communities and I hope and pray that the right person will be called to lead the churches soon.

Even though my current difficulties are with my mental health, please do not hesitate to continue to contact me if I can be of any help and support.

With love and prayers

Ali

September is a time when we often think of new beginnings. As schools and colleges return to a new academic year, there are new opportunities for us to explore how we can live as God's people and positively influence those around us as we encounter God in our everyday lives. This Autumn there are sessions planned by the Diocese looking at being faithful in the areas of rest, work and play:

Everyday Faith at Rest, Monday 27th September, 7.30pm.

In a culture where we admire busyness, how do we take time to rest?

Everyday Faith at Work, Monday 18th October, 7.30pm

How do we live out God's call for us in our workplace?

PRAYERS

We continue to pray for all those affected by the global pandemic in any way.

From World Vision

Pray for protection

Heavenly Father, we ask for your protection over all those who feel fearful for their future in Afghanistan. For local World Vision staff who remain committed to work tirelessly for the needs of Afghan children and families, we ask you protect them Lord.

Father God, as change sweeps across Afghanistan we pray for peace. We lift our concerns for those fleeing their homes and country, and for all who are uncertain about the future. Father, children are often those most affected during times of crisis, so amongst the turmoil protect your little ones.

Pray for recovery

And Lord Jesus, with time, we pray that Afghanistan will recover from this devastating crisis and that it becomes a nation where children and families can rebuild their homes, communities and lives. In Your holy name. Amen.

A Prayer in times of extreme weather

God our creator, create in us a new heart, A new understanding, a new way of living. God our redeemer, rescue us from the brink of disaster, Open our eyes to see the dangers that lie ahead. God our Sustainer, equip and energise us, To hold fast to the changes that we need to make. Amen

Poet's Corner

CHURCH TIMES 03 SEPTEMBER 2021 The year 1549 was significant for North Walsham — and the Church, Malcolm Guite reflects

AS A historic market town, North Walsham is naturally proud of its old Market Cross. The "market cross", is not, in fact, a cross at all, but an elegant octagonal structure. Eight open arches lead into a raised wooden floor above, on which fine oak beams lift a two-stage roof, leaded, and all crowned with a clock and a weathervane. The clock and weathervane are later additions, 18th- and 19th-century; but the market cross itself began life in 1549 as a gift from the Bishop of Norwich to the people of the town.

And, as I sat down to rest by the cross and read a brief inscription of its history, it was this date of its inception that struck me; for 1549 is, famously, the date of another gift from the Church to the people of England: the Book of Common Prayer. Perched on the edge, under one of the arches, and enjoying a bottle of local ale and a pork pie bought from the market stalls, I found myself pondering on the many things that the Market Cross and the BCP have in common.

Both were a transformation of something that already existed, but with the aim of making it more accessible and more widely used. That 1549 BCP was the first prayer book to include the complete forms of service for daily and Sunday worship in English. Morning and evening prayer already existed, but now they could be entered into and enjoyed much more fully, with a real understanding of their meaning. Likewise, there had been a stone pillar to mark the "market cross", and the rights, which had been granted back in the 13th century, to buy and sell and exchange goods around it; but, in 1549, it was transformed: the eight arches or porticoes, like the sides of a font, welcomed people in from all directions, and provided a centre, a shelter, and a focus for the community — again, all things that the BCP was there to do.

Of course, the Market Cross is not now exactly as it was in 1549, and neither is the BCP. The BCP was revised further in 1552 and 1604, and the first iteration of the market cross was not actually completed till 1555. The BCP was, of course, abrogated under Mary, and again under Cromwell, but eventually revised and restored, after many vicissitudes, in 1662. Likewise, our little market cross was destroyed, together with the entire market, in a fire of 1600, only to be restored by another bishop and re-presented to the town in 1602.

So, as with anything worth preserving, there is always a need for revision and restoration, but there is also a long continuity. All the essentials of life which were brought and exchanged here in 1549 — the beer and butter, the bread and wine — are still brought and exchanged, perhaps wrapped a little differently.

And, likewise, the things that we bring and exchange in our life of prayer remain essentially the same: we bring the pain and joy, the confession and thanksgiving; we bring them into the shelter, the time-worn table of exchange which is our common liturgy, and come away, as though from market, revived, refurbished, supplied again with the week's necessities of grace, glad for the gift our common prayer — our common place of exchange — and thinking that maybe, with so much grace on offer, we got a bit of a bargain.
